

Our Time at the Port of Seattle

Commissions Cohort: Weitong, Jennifer, Zak

Project Definition

Baseline: How can the Port be a better partner to indigenous communities?

Narrowed down project scope to : "Why is it important for the youth to establish relations w Port Commissions?"

A question we asked ourselves: How can we create a project that clearly conveys the information that people need to feel confident in interacting with the Commission?

Connection to RAISE Values and Century Agenda

Respectful: Listening to community voices.

Anti-Racism and Equity: Inclusive to everyone

Integrity: Conducting interviews to get the most accurate information.

Stewardship: Holding ourselves accountable in working on our project.

Excellence: We did so awesome sauce.

Century Agenda:

- Goals 3, 5, and 6
- Goal 3: Responsibly invest in the economic growth of the region and all its communities
- Goal 5: Become a model for equity, diversity and inclusion
- Goal 6: be a highly effective public agency

FIVE GUYS

Project Overview

How did we gain insight on how to engage with youth at the Hub?

Interview with...

- Sally del Fierro, Director of External Relations for Community Engagement
- Christina Billingsley, Senior Program Manager Community Engagement
- Peaches Thomas, External Relations Environmental Program Coordinator
- Had guidance from Amberine Wilson and Tyler Emsky, our mentors

Project Overview

How did we finish our project?

SICK PRESENTATION - helps spread information

- Utilized our youth time wisely
- Interacted with a wide range of stakeholders

How did we learn what the commission was?

Attended Commission meetings and did lots of research and interviews

Interview with...

- Ryan Calkins, Commissioner President
- Marycruz Talavera-Chavez, Commission Staff Assistant

Creating the Final Product

- Presented a Workshop Presentation at the Seattle Hub Next Steps Career Fair
- Worked on a webpage, contents of the webpage were planned to be made a blog post for the Port of Seattle website
- Future interns can reformat the webpage into a different medium when we pass on 😊

Hub Presentation:

Where was this presentation?

- At the Seattle Duwamish River Community Hub
- Port of Seattle's Next Steps Career Fair

Who was there?

- About 40 Port of Seattle interns

What was the point of this workshop?

To inform our peers on how to engage with the Port of Seattle Commission and why it's important.

What info was in this presentation?

Overall: why is it important for us to interact with Port Commission and how can we interact?

We saw what the public meeting sessions looked like.

Conclusion and Next Steps

What have we learned and gained from this internship?

- Scheduling and reaching out to stakeholders
- Engage in professional meetings and contribute in a meaningful way
- Networking and asking questions

Suggestions + Next Steps:

- Make hub webpage information align with Brand Central guidelines
- Allow webpage information to become available to public
- Commission Suggestion: increase language and location accessibility
- Commission Suggestion: adjust time allotted for each public comment

We're so grateful to have been in this internship. Thank you to all our stake holders,
mentors, and friends.

Autobots roll out!!

